Tile & Stone

Some tiles and stone will vary greatly from piece to piece. There will be extreme shade and color variation from tile to tile, and stone, depending on your selection. Once the material is installed, the client waives all claims to incorrect color/shading/appearance.

Coping

Coping colors will vary from piece to piece. If you selected the same color coping and pavers, they will not match. Different materials, even if they have the same color title, will vary in material type. The nature of pool coping will create small indentations along the border that look like chips. This is the nature of the material and is normal. For example, Ice Pavers will not match Ice Coping. Once the material is installed, the client waives all claims to incorrect color/shading/appearance.

Decking

There will be color variation between thick and thin pavers. The thicks and thins will not match even if the same color is selected as these are two types of materials. For example, if you need thin pavers on your existing patio, and thick pavers around the pool. They will not match. Sand is only to keep pavers from rocking back and forth and will not be seen to the surface of the material throughout. On travertine decks, outdoor material is different than indoor material. We must use outdoor material on pool decks. The nature of outdoor material is tumbled. This means chips and imperfections are part of the aesthetic of this product. Pitting, color variations, veins are all part of the character of the product and the nature of the material. Once the material is installed, the client waives all claims to incorrect color/shading/appearance. This includes all deck materials, thicks and thins.

Interior

Plaster Finishes will vary in appearance as this is a hand-applied finish. Any imperfections seen at night is a result of shading from the light of the pool. Modeling, unevenness and color variation is normal and not covered by warranty.
